

Online Family Games & Activities for Teens

Free Games

Trivia

You can use this free trivia quiz template to create your own questions, or use a pre-built game such as the ones in Sporcle's massive library on every topic imaginable.

Most likely to...

Create a list of "most likely to" prompts, such as "Most likely to become a chef" (or other career), "Most likely to be late to the dinner party," "Most likely to live on a farm," etc. Then, pose each question to the family members and have everyone give their answer. This game only requires a video connection.

Name that Tune

This game also requires just a video connection. Take turns humming (or whistling) a song without the lyrics. Have the other family members guess the song.

Two Truths and a Lie

This game also requires only a video connection. Take turns telling "two truths and a lie" to the other family members: two true statements and one false statement. Then, have other family members guess the "lie."

Sell it to Me

Take turns pretending to "sell" something to the other family members. This could be a real or fake product, or a made-up concept like a fake country, magical land, or new invention. Create an elevator pitch of less than 30 seconds and try to "sell" the product or service to the other family members. This game requires only a video connection.

Virtual escape room

You can use this service to play free virtual escape rooms. This puzzle-like activity requires you to put your heads together and solve clues to "escape" from the virtual room or maze. Choose a theme that suits your family's interests and work together to solve the puzzle.

Online Family Games & Activities for Teens

Paid Games

Kahoot!

Kahoot! is a platform offering a massive list of online games and activities, including for school and work. Create an account for access to the library and find the games that suit your family's interests. You will probably need to share your screen for these activities, so it's best to use Zoom, Skype, or Google Meet.

Heads Up

Have all players rent or buy the game on the Apple App Store or Google Play. One by one, have each player hold their phone up to their forehead so the other players can see the phone screen. The app will auto-generate a word. The other players give clues about the word without using it, and the person holding the phone has to guess the word correctly before time runs out. The app also comes with various topical decks, such as celebrities, movies, and animals, so pick one that suits your teen's interests.